About the Fox Rothschild Center for Law and Society

The Fox Rothschild Center for Law and Society at Community College of Philadelphia provides a structure for the ongoing support of law-related disciplines in the context of their connections to broader societal issues. The Center encompasses several academic programs and fosters a variety of projects and events for both the College family and the broader community.

Center Programs

The following academic programs constitute the Fox Rothschild Center for Law and Society:

Paralegal Studies (A.A.S. degree or post-degree certificate) is approved by the American Bar Association and provides entry into this fast-growing legal career. For more information about Paralegal Studies, contact Kathy Smith, Esq., at ksmith@ccp.edu.

Justice (A.A.S. degree or certificate) provides a sound foundation for careers in the exciting field of criminal justice. For information about Justice, contact William Mulkeen, Esq., at wmulkeen@ccp.edu.

Digital Forensics (A.A.S. degree) addresses the increasing demand for trained digital forensics technicians. For more information about Digital Forensics, contact Pamela King at paking@ccp.edu.

Geographic Information Systems (certificate) offers training in the emerging field of geospatial technology. For more information about GIS, contact Deirdre Garrity-Benjamin at dgarritybenjamin@ccp.edu.

Fire Science (A.A.S. degree) offers training and the academic background needed for a career in fire science. For more information about Fire Science, contact Robert Drennen at rdrennen@ccp.edu.

Welcome to Law and Society Week 2017

Please join us for our 18th Annual Law and Society Week, presented by the Fox Rothschild Center for Law and Society and co-sponsored by the Pro Bono Committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association and The Rendell Center for Civics and Civic Engagement.

Kathleen Smith

This week of legal and related events, designed by and for the College Family and local community, offers something for everyone, from lectures, workshops, presentations, and demonstrations to student participation, legal resources and more. Many events qualify for continuing legal education credits in Pennsylvania.

This year's week celebrates our many partnerships and supporters, and we are very excited to kick off the week with a keynote address from Thomas D. Paradise, general counsel from Fox Rothschild LLP. Fox Rothschild emerged as an early supporter of the Center for Law and Society, and the firm's continued generosity has enabled expansion and new directions.

We are thrilled that we have been able to attract distinguished speakers to this year's Law and Society Week. We thank all our organizers, participants and partners who have dedicated their time, energy, talents and resources to make our 18th Annual Law and Society Week a resounding success. We hope you find this year's special lineup of events to be exciting and informative, and we look forward to seeing you in future years.

I would like to extend a special thanks to the 2017 Law and Society Week Committee members who make this week possible, and the many College departments that support this week.

The Law and Society Week Committee would also like to thank the staff of the Division of Marketing and Government Relations for their amazing support for these events.

Remembering Anna Vadino

This 18th Annual Law and Society Week is dedicated to the memory of a very special supporter of the Center, Anna Vadino. When her daughter, Nicole Vadino, joined the College 15 years ago, Anna enthusiastically embraced the Center's work and attended every Law and Society Week. Her enthusiasm for the week's events always provided welcomed encouragement in a wonderful, but sometimes frenzied week. Anna's kind remembrance of the Center will support scholarships for students who embrace careers in law and society fields. She was an extraordinary woman who entered the legal field as the fourth female attorney admitted in Delaware County. Those of us who work with the Fox Rothschild Center for Law and Society are honored to have known her.

Anna and Nicole Vadino

Anna graduated from Dickinson College, majoring in Political Science and Sociology, and graduated from Temple Law School. A proud member of the Delaware County Bar Association and Pennsylvania Bar, Anna worked as a Mental Health Review officer for Delaware County. She was passionate about advocating for those in the mental health system and providing them with dignity and respect. Early on in her career, she was an Assistant District Attorney in Delaware County and a solicitor for Tincum Township. She was a member of several organizations, including the Justinian Society, League of Ukrainian Women, the Inn of Court, the "Order of the Door" and various others. An avid traveler, Anna enjoyed exploring the world and loved to meet new people and experience new cultures. She was a friend and mentor to many and inspired those around her to be the best they could be. Her greatest accomplishment was raising and educating her three children. She loved being a Babi (grandmother) more than anything else in the world and spending as much time as possible with her grandchildren.

Community Law School Day

10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Center for Business and Industry,
2nd & 3rd Floors

Individuals and community advocates will benefit from education and skill-building workshop sessions, in addition to free legal assistance clinics. Come learn about child custody, rental housing law and your rights as a tenant, representing yourself in court, your rights when dealing with the police, cutting through red tape when dealing with bureaucracies to get public benefits and services, how to find legal help and information online, and how to negotiate. Legal clinics will offer assistance with child support issues, criminal record expungement assessment, tax preparation, and Individualized Education Program review and development. Pre-registration is highly recommended, though walk-ins will be accepted as space allows.

Visit communitylawschoolday.eventbrite.com to see the full schedule and to register for free.

Co-sponsored by Community Legal Services and Philadelphia Legal Assistance, with contributions from the ACLU of

International Human Trafficking

10:20 to 11:20 a.m., Center for Business and Industry,
Room C2-28

Human trafficking is considered one of the fastest growing criminal industries in the world. Where most people think that this activity does not impact them personally, different forms of forced labor have been uncovered throughout the United States and abroad. This lecture will discuss the social implications and criminal aspects of human trafficking, and the ways in which it is being combated here and around the world.

Presenters: Nicole Vadino and Faye Allard, Ph.D., assistant professors, Sociology

**1 hour Substantive CLE*

Savage Inequities: A Tale of Two Schools

11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Center for Business and Industry,
Room C2-28

Philadelphia's Kensington Health Science High School and Montgomery County's Methacton High School are less than an hour's drive from each other, but the realities of the two institutions are dimensions apart. This session looks at a project in which students from the two schools participated in an exchange that opened eyes and hearts in unexpected ways. Statistics show that Methacton spends several thousand dollars more per child than is spent at Kensington, but this powerful session will showcase far more than statistics.

Presenters: Anthony Maida, teacher, Methacton High School; James Williams, principal, Kensington Health Science High School; and David Trevaskis, Esq., Pro Bono Counsel, Pennsylvania Bar Association

“Days of OUR Lives” Theater Presentation

1:40 to 2:40 p.m., Bonnell Auditorium, Room BG-20

The resident company of Community College of Philadelphia, Once More Theatre, will perform a collection of monologues and scenes written by students from the REACH Program of the College’s Reentry Support Project.

Opening Reception

3 to 5 p.m., Pavilion Cube, Room P2-03

Thomas D. Paradise, General Counsel at Fox Rothschild LLP will provide opening remarks. Join us as we officially open the 18th Annual Law and Society Week! Refreshments, exhibits and more.

Dr. Generals, President, Kathy Smith, J.D., Center Director and Daniel McElhaton, Esq., Advisory Board Member

Life and Death with Dignity: A Conversation with Barbara Mancini

6 to 7:30 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall,
Room S2-19

Barbara Mancini is a registered nurse whose yearlong prosecution by former Pennsylvania Attorney General Kathleen Kane for allegedly aiding the attempted suicide of her father by handing him pain medication made national news. Ms. Mancini became an activist for Death with Dignity as a result, and her story has been told on “60 Minutes” and CNN. This session features a discussion of her story and a consideration of important end-of-life issues.

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Tuesday, February 28, 2017

Murder in Marple

9:40 to 11:10 a.m., Center for Business and Industry, Room C2-28

Benjamin D'Amore abused his wife for the last time on Nov. 29, 1949. That night, his sons John and Nicholas exacted revenge and executed Benjamin with a shotgun and deer rifle. The trial that followed was unlike many before it. Author Thomas Deitman unravels the horrific legal events and conspiracies regarding this shocking patricide case, explaining the differences between the law then and now.

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Domestic Violence: Do You Hear Me? A Symphony of Hope

11:20 a.m. to 12:50 p.m., Bonnell Auditorium, Room BG-20

A multimedia presentation including a song, panel and a skit on the many facets of domestic violence. This session will also include a presentation by William Love, Esq., on Protection from Abuse standards and provide an opportunity for discussion.

Moderated by William Love, Esq., Chair, Social Science Department, Community College of Philadelphia.

Co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania Eastern Baptist Association

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Perspectives on Healing in the Aftermath of Violence:
A Restorative Justice Peace Circle

1 to 2:30 p.m., Center for Business and Industry, Room C2-5

Pennsylvania has 500 juvenile lifers, 300 of whom are from Philadelphia. In the aftermath of the Supreme Court's decision to end the practice of life without parole, or death by incarceration for juveniles, Pennsylvania's juvenile lifers must have their cases resentenced. This workshop will take place in a peacemaking circle, a Native American/First Nation dialogue practice. We will discuss juvenile lifers, but will also explore the aftermath of violence and what to do about healing. Present in this circle will be several individuals who are co-victims of violence, where the victim was a loved one, and some that have had family members serving life sentences for homicide.

This circle is facilitated by adjunct professor Don Haldeman and Saint Joseph's University.

Copyrights and the Self-published Songwriter/Artist

1 to 2:30 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

This workshop will explore the challenges facing songwriters and artists in the current music industry climate. An emphasis will be placed on securing copyrights for one's works, as well as understanding the various ways in which music is monetized. Come hear a firsthand take on ways to navigate the ever-changing music industry landscape. Join Paul J. Geissinger, producer, composer and chair of the College's Music Department for this lively session.

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Children as Change Makers

2:40 to 4:10 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

This panel looks at the power of children to effectuate meaningful change in society. Panelists include Mary Beth Tinker, who as a 13-year-old girl in the 60s wore a black armband to school, leading to a Supreme Court case defining the free speech rights of juveniles. Alexis Werner, who started the nonprofit Seeds of Hope, will discuss creating the organization as a high school student struggling to understand the issues faced by her stepfather on his return from Afghanistan.

Moderator: David Trevaskis, Esq., Pro Bono Counsel, Pennsylvania Bar Association

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

The First Amendment Gets Personal: The Tinker Case

6 to 7:30 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

Mary Beth Tinker, one of the plaintiffs in the Tinker case that redefined the free speech rights of juveniles, discusses her cases and puts it into the legal framework of First Amendment jurisprudence. The Honorable Theodore McKee, judge in the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, will participate in this discussion.

Moderator: David Trevaskis, Esq., Pro Bono Counsel, Pennsylvania Bar Association

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Wednesday, March 1, 2017

Youth Court Meeting

9 to 10:20 a.m., Center for Business and Industry, Room C2-28

**Invitation only*

Promoting Intellectual Diversity in an Inclusive Environment

9:10 to 10:10 a.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

The Supreme Court has yet to rule directly on whether speech codes on college campuses violate the First Amendment. Lower U.S. District Courts have delivered seemingly contradictory decisions striking down some codes (Doe v Michigan, DeJohn v Temple University) and upholding others (Keefe v Adams). The broader context for this speech code discussion is the capacity of institutions of higher learning to simultaneously promote the principles of diversity and inclusion while also protecting vibrant and diverse intellectual discourse. This panel will explore the boundaries of intellectual discourse on college campuses and the concept of promoting a safe space for the free market of ideas.

**1 hour Substantive CLE*

Homeland Security Mobile Command Post Tours

10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Spring Garden Street Mint Building entrance

Visit the nerve center of a mobile command post operated by the Homeland Security Unit of the Philadelphia Police Department. Come see the cutting-edge equipment of modern emergency management.

Opiate Addiction: Why the Increase, and What Can We Do About It?

10:20 to 11:20 a.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

The abuse of and addiction to opiates is a serious global problem. An estimated 2.1 million people in the United States suffer from substance use disorders related to prescription opioid pain relievers. This addiction can affect the health, social and economic welfare of all involved, with unintentional overdose deaths soaring since 1999. We need to address the rise in addiction while still maintaining the profound role that these pain relievers provide for millions suffering from pain. This panel will discuss the science of addiction, explain the rapid increase we have seen in recent years and offer suggestions to reduce death rates. You will also learn how guidelines for prescriptions have changed and what the DEA is doing about this epidemic.

Panelists include Vince Lattanzio, NBC10 Reporter & Dayside Journalism Lead for NBC10 Digital; Gary Tuggle, Special Agent in Charge, Philadelphia Field Division, U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration; Bradley Nash, Ph.D. candidate, Drexel University College of Medicine, Department of Pharmacology & Physiology

Judges and lawyers from the Philadelphia area will share their thoughts on youth courts.

**1 hour Substantive CLE*

Octavius Catto: Remembering a Forgotten Hero

1:50 to 2:50 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

Nineteenth century Philadelphian, Octavius Valentine Catto, was a remarkable scholar, teacher, civil rights leader, community organizer and athlete. Sadly, his name and his deeds have been for too long left out of the mainstream historical narrative. Fortunately, our city will soon get an important and long overdue history lesson. Thanks to the vigorous efforts of Mayor Kenney and many others, a statue memorializing Catto will soon be installed on the south apron of City Hall—the first monument to an individual African American ever erected in Philadelphia. In this interactive session led by Amy Cohen (Director of Education for documentary film company History Making Productions), participants will view clips from “An Equal Chance: 1855-1871,” part of the 14-part, Philadelphia: The Great Experiment series that is available free of cost at historyofphilly.com. Participants will also examine and analyze primary sources related to Catto’s life story and will engage in discussions based on provocative and timely questions raised by the content of the film.

Tasting Freedom: Octavius Catto, Civil Rights and Legal Challenges

6 to 7:30 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

The authors of a biography of Octavius Catto, which has been called “a towering, persuasive narrative,” discuss Catto and the turbulent legal environment of the 19th century that preceded the modern Civil Rights era. Octavius Catto was a teacher at Philadelphia’s finest black school and an activist who fought for equal rights, and whose pioneering civil career ended in murder. This session will include discussion of the 1859 trial of a fugitive slave, legal battles over streetcar access, and voting rights and related legal, judicial and ethical considerations.

Presenters: Authors Dan R. Biddle and Murray Dubin

**1 hour Substantive and .5 hour Ethics CLE*

Thursday, March 2, 2017

Youth, Punishment and Crime: Sentencing and Reentry

9:40 to 11:10 a.m., Center for Business and Industry,
Room C2-28

This panel focuses on the direct service and policy advocacy utilized to transform the experiences of children prosecuted in the adult criminal justice system, and to ensure fair and thoughtful re-sentencing and reentry for juvenile lifers, or individuals who were sentenced to life without parole as children.

Presenter: Joanna Visser Adjoian, director, Youth Sentencing and Reentry Project (YSRP)

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Philadelphia CSI

10 a.m. to 12 p.m., Northeast Regional Center, Room 124

The Philadelphia Police Department's Crime Scene Unit will explain its role in photographing and sketching crime scenes, as well as its method in the identification and processing of crime scene evidence. Actual and sometimes graphic crime scene photos will be shown.

**2 hours Substantive CLE*

Homeland Security Mobile Command Post Tours

Legal Implications of Nursing

9:40 to 11:10 a.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

Paul Bechtel, Esq., a nationally renowned expert on law and medicine, and a veteran of more than 300 jury trials, will discuss nursing and issues of legal liability in medicine. Mr. Bechtel is a retired partner of Marshall, Dennehey, Warner, Coleman & Goggin.

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Answering the Call for Political Renewal

11:20 a.m. to 12:50 p.m., Bonnell Building, Large Auditorium, Room BG-20

The overarching message of the 2016 political season—embodied in the Bernie Sanders and Donald Trump campaigns—is that many voters have lost faith in the ability of our political process to govern this country. What reforms to the process should be on the agenda, locally and nationally, to restore that faith and the sense that democracy can work again? What can individuals, especially law students early in their careers, do to help bring about those changes?

David Thornburgh of the Committee of Seventy leads a panel on these important issues.

Cristina Henríquez: The Book of Unknown Americans

12:40 to 2 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

Author Cristina Henríquez will discuss her book, which highlights issues of immigrants and immigration to the United States. Set in Delaware, the story focuses on two main characters. Woven into the story are the voices and experiences of men and women who have come to the United States from all over Central and Latin America.

Co-sponsored by the International Festival

Ethics in City Government

1 to 2:30 p.m., Bonnell Building, Large Auditorium, Room BG-20

Contemporary government at all jurisdictional levels is guided and funded by a complex and ever-increasing maze of laws, administrative rules and regulations, and practices. Compliance with these directives is required of government employees and those who do business with government. Philadelphia's Office of the Inspector General (OIG) is the government watchdog with the power to investigate corruption, fraud, waste, and dishonest and unethical practices. Members of the OIG will discuss their role in this important area of ethics.

Moderator: William Mulkeen, Esq., adjunct instructor, Paralegal Studies

Presenters: Amy L. Kurland, Inspector General and Kathleen T. McAfee, First Deputy Inspector General, City of Philadelphia

**1.5 hours Ethics CLE*

Responding to the Concerns of Black Lives Matter: Criminal Justice Reform Efforts in Philadelphia

2:40 to 4:10 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall,
Room S2-19

Join us for a panel discussion about how Philadelphia's lawmakers and local authorities have responded to police tensions, incarceration rates, racial profiling and biased sentencing post-Ferguson. A review of initiatives that have been launched in response to these challenges will be addressed.

Panelists: Debonair Oates-Primus, assistant professor, English and Michael Coard, Esq.

Co-sponsored by the Presidents Diversity Council

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Marijuana Law: What's the Future?

6 to 7:30 p.m., Winnet Student Life Building, Great Hall, Room S2-19

This panel looks at the state of laws on marijuana and discusses upcoming changes for Pennsylvania in the emerging medical marijuana and industrial hemp markets. This session focuses on the distribution, zoning laws and local ordinances, and investment and cannabis banking issues in Pennsylvania, along with other areas as it relates to cannabis business law.

Panelists: Steven Schain, Esq. and Patricia M. Hoban, Esq. of Hoban Law Group

**1.5 hours Substantive CLE*

Friday, March 3, 2017
